Lisa Menendez will be joining the Metro Group Maritime team come mid-September 2016 and brings with her over twelve years of experience in the shipping line industry, ten of which were working with the U.S Flag segment. She has worked with both the government and commercial customers booking cargo aboard U.S. Flagged vessels.

“I am super excited to know that a former colleague of mine from the Hapag-Lloyd Tampa office, Lisa Menendez, will be joining the Metro team. Lisa brings a great deal to the team with her great personality and ability to always see the positive side to everything,” says Donna Dunnam, a Metro Group Maritime employee. Francisco Hernandez, a Metro Group Maritime manager and former Hapag-Lloyd manager said, “I could not be happier that Lisa will be joining our receivables team here at Metro Group. Lisa comes to us having worked in various departments in her twelve plus years with a top ocean carrier and also more than ten years in receivables with a major financial institution.” Marcus Arky, a principal of Metro Group Maritime said, “She clearly fits into the culture of Metro, of being the right personality and extremely skilled and experienced – she knows the shipping business, knows the world of military and government contracting and has a deep understanding of receivables and collections.”

“I truly loved working with the ocean carrier and U.S. Flag, however, I am very excited about applying my skill set with Metro,” said Lisa Menendez.

Metro Group Maritime, headquartered in New York City, is a commercial receivable management, debt recovery, and consulting company focused on the maritime and transportation industry.
